

Buttrey Manuscript Letters "A" to "M"

The following is an index of the 998 tunes found in the John Buttrey manuscript.

The tunes are ordered in an unusual fashion due to two factors: 1) the manuscript appears to be the product of at least two individuals of varying literacy and, 2) many of the titles are spelled phonetically. Rather than modernizing the spelling for the sake of strict alphabetical order the titles have been left in their original form and ordered as if modern spellings were used. The benefit of this method is that the index uses the spelling of the manuscript itself while the titles still follow modern phonetics and spelling. The end result is that the songs can be located, hopefully, fairly easily without savaging the original titles too much. The manuscript also contains a number of harmonies that have been indexed immediately behind their melodies, regardless of whether or not the position is appropriate alphabetically. The benefit of placing harmonies and melodies together is obvious.

All tunes with a regimental number or associated with a regiment have been grouped together and can be found between the "Q" and "R" sections. These tunes are ordered by regimental seniority, in the case of regulars, and alphabetically, in the case of militia units. Regimental titles are as of 1812.

Citations follow the format of title, time and key signature (shown by two digits and a letter), and the control number assigned to each title by Buttrey. "But" indicates a melody. "Butsec" indicates a harmony found at the front section of the manuscript. Regardless of whether the tune is in a major or relative minor key only Buttrey's key signature is noted, correct or otherwise. When there are multiple tunes of a particular time and key signature there is only a single citation with multiple Buttrey control numbers. In the case of indecipherable letters or words an underscore replaces a letter; a question mark, a word. A certain number of pages are missing from the manuscript comprising But79 to But107. The titles for these tunes are not included in this index. Some of the final tunes have no control number. These tunes are noted 'No #'.

Editorial comments and references are encased by square brackets. Tunes held in common with other manuscripts or publications are so noted.
